

Hire a VRBA Contractor for Your Home Project

Russ Barry
President, VRBA

Last year, many municipalities were required to update their bylaws to accommodate the provincial legislation enabling moderate housing density (townhomes, duplexes, fourplexes, etc) in single family zones.

If you are considering any new home project including a small, multi-family or renovating your existing house into separate units, consider using our online Expression of Interest form to hire a professional contractor.

Visit <https://www.vrba.ca/hire-a-builder/> and fill out the form which is forwarded to VRBA members.

Our Expression of Interest puts your project in front of Canada's leaders in sustainable West Coast design and construction.

VRBA builders have a network of skilled designers, trades and suppliers to manage your project professionally and efficiently.

They can help you identify your vision in the most cost-effective way.

Some consumers make the mistake of hiring a contractor on the advice of a friend.

Many believe they are getting a "deal", but that alleged "deal" can fade quickly and turn into major challenges.

Your builder should have a professional contract, strong track record, as well as warranty and liability coverage.

VRBA members have the experience and knowledge to build or renovate your new project – single-family or multi-family.

Start your search for a contractor with the Victoria Residential Builders Association.
